The first Air Jordan shoe was produced for basketball player Michael Jordan during his time with the Chicago Bulls on November 17, 1984, and released to the public on April 1, 1985. Brand of shoes and athletic clothing designed, owned, and produced for Michael Jordan by Nike.

Chelsea boots are a close-fitting, ankle-length boot style characterized by elastic side panels, a low heel, and a snug fit around the ankle, often featuring a pull tab or loop at the back for easy on-and-off use. The design originated in the Victorian era, credited to Joseph Sparkes Hall, Queen Victoria's shoemaker, who created the first pair in 1837 for both walking and horse riding, with the elastic gussets allowing for easy removal and wear without laces

Sneakers, also known as trainers in British English, are a type of footwear primarily designed for sports or physical exercise but are now widely used for everyday casual wear. The term "sneaker" is believed to have originated from the quietness of the rubber soles, which allowed wearers to move stealthily, a feature noted as early as 1887.

The adidas Adizero range is designed for runners seeking high performance, speed, and precision, built using data and input from elite athletes. These shoes are engineered to support both competitive racing and training goals, featuring lightweight construction and advanced technologies to enhance running efficiency.

COMFORT THAT STANDS OUT

Not gonna lie these shoes stole the spotlight more than the view.
Crazy comfy, easy to style, and they've been my go-to ever since i got them.
